2018 Dogs NSW- Dog Lovers Show

On Saturday June 16, the Yorkshire Terrier Club of NSW participated in the 2018 Dogs NSW Dog Lovers Show, held at the Bill Spilstead Complex for Canine Affairs at Erskine Park. Our Club Secretary, Alanna Burton, filed this report on the event and Club's fabulous results!

Wow - what a huge day at Dogs on Show, representing the Yorkshire Terrier Club of NSW. We arrived for set up at 7am and didn't leave until after 5.30pm. Our Club's theme was the history of the Yorkshire Terrier, which was used for "rattin'" in England. Huge thanks Wayne, our Club President, for all his hard work in helping with the set-up of the stand and then taking it down again at the end of the day. Also a big thank you to club members and helpers, Jackie, Valerie, Julie-Anne, Harnie and Michelle who spared a few hours out of their day to come and help out on the stand. It was a great day talking to the public about the dogs we love. The Yorkshire Terrier Club stand was voted "most unusual" and we won a ribbon and $50 for the club. We also participated in the Pageant of Breeds that was judged by His Excellency General The Honourable David Hurley AC DSC, Governor of NSW and his wife. The Club was awarded first place, winning another ribbon and a further $100 for the club's coffers! This win was a huge shock and a wonderful surprise as we had some impressive competition, overall – it was a really great day. Thank you to Cabal Candida for the great photos of our team.

Q. When did your interest in purebred dogs start and what breed/s have you owned, bred and shown?

A. It was my wedding anniversary in 1998 and my husband suggested I might like a dog. Shandy, (Yetholme Candle Light) came into our lives with long hair, a pretty head and lots of love to give. Shandy was my husband Geoffrey's constant companion for a few months before his death and she stayed with me until her 17th year. I still miss her!

Q. How and when did you become involved in Yorkshire Terriers?

A. Shandy's breeder, Jan Clarke, introduced me to showing and my dear friend Teri Bell in Hawaii gave me my first chance to take a bitch into the show ring while I was visiting her there. I was then hooked for life! Since 2006 I have titled quite a few Yorkies and started breeding over the last six years. My Yorkie puppies have had great success in the show ring with me and with other exhibitors and they make me very proud.

Q. What is your opinion of the quality of the Yorkie breed today?

A. I have been given some beautiful dogs through my friend Teri Bell in Hawaii and progeny of Dream (Am Ch. Ch Kentauro Alfa Wild Dream) and Kailani (Ch Kealoha Kailani At Vrose) are in the show ring. Both these Yorkies are from the top European kennels "Hunderwood" and "Qoccles" in France and Italy. I hope this will bring some new blood into our breeding lines. We do have a high breed standard here, thanks to the few Yorkie breeders in Australia, past and present, investing in broadening the available Yorkshire Terrier gene pool.

Yorkies are not just about the show ring!

Introducing Delilbra Im Your Huckleberry NW1 – Huckleberry.

Huckleberry is the first Yorkshire Terrier in Australia to obtain his Nose Work 1 title, sanctioned by Australian Canine Scent Work (ACSW).

So – what is Nose Work? Our Yorkie Club member and Huckleberry's mum, Deb Lemanski, explains.

All dogs have a natural ability to recognise different scents. Nose work is a sport, based on canine detection training, that lets your dog use this instinctive ability and they love it! The idea of Nose Work is to let your dog set the pace – YES, your dog is in control in this game – to find particular odours hidden in different locations. When the odour is found, the dog is rewarded. As handler, you and your dog work as a team. You learn to read your dog's way of communicating, while he doesn't have to worry if he's doing it wrong or right. In this game, it's the handler who needs to learn, especially to trust your dog!

Huckleberry and I began our love affair with Nose Work in February 2017. We enrolled in an introductory course and Huckleberry loved it so much we continued on. Huck quickly became proficient in "novel odours" (birch, anise and cloves). Usually competitors in an ORT (odour recognition test), concentrate on one odour, but when the ACSW ran its next ORT in May 2017, I thought what the heck, and entered everything. Huck passed with flying colours, as did his mum Lilly! I never doubted their obedience to odour - they ARE Yorkies!!!

There was a Nose Work (NW1) trial in August 2017, so pushing our luck further and learning under an awesome trainer, whose priority is the dog's enjoyment, we signed up. Huckleberry took everything in his stride and passed all four elements of the day - containers, interiors, exteriors and vehicle searches. In competition you have three minutes for each element, but Huck finished all four elements in a combined time of 3 minutes 38 seconds and was awarded his NW1 title. We also competed at the Epic Advance Dog Sport Extravaganza in Canberra on 7-8 July. Again, Huck passed all four elements and he was one of only seven dogs to qualify across the whole weekend. We also won the judges' choice award. This award is for communication and teamwork with your dog and, for me, it actually means more than a title.

The timeframe of our nose work journey is not usual or even recommended, but Huck's pure enjoyment of the sport (and my competitive streak) has bought us to where we are now.

Deb tells us that Nose work is suitable for all dogs and you don't need any prior training. Shy fearful and reactive dogs are catered for, aging, disabled, blind, and deaf, in a wheelchair, high energy - it doesn't matter, they all find Nose Work fun and rewarding. Well done Deb and Huckleberry !!

The Yorkshire Terrier Club of NSW is the only official Yorkie Club in Australia and we want to encourage new membership and participation in our Club to keep it operational and, more importantly, to keep our delightful and loving breed alive and healthy. Whether or not you own a Yorkie, why not consider joining? We have a happy and very social club.
